OIL ARRIVES AT PORT ARANSAS

Another Big Transport Barge Is Expected This Week.

PORT ARANSAS, Tex., Jan. 11.—The last two days has registered the low mark of the winter for cold weather at this place the thermometer being 2 degrees below freezing, and being the first freeze of the winter so far. A slight trace of rain accompanied the norther, it is now clear and back to the normal temperature of 40 degrees. The dredges working in the harbor at this place were unable to continue operations during the two days the norther was on, but are now working as usual.

Barge No. 1 of the Baytown Oil company arrived in port last week with a full cargo of oil for local use.

Notice has been received from the Texas Oil company that one of their big transport barges will arrive here this week with a cargo of oil for their 25,000-gallon storage tank at this place. This is one of the largest tanks in the southwest and will supply oil to a large portion of the trade in the surrounding country.

Another local company has been organized for buying and handling fish at this place. They are now erecting fish houses adjoining the harbor and will be ready for business in a few days.

Egyptian Wheat.

(Caller-Herald Special.) HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 11.—Wonderful results are being obtained in Texas in the culture of Egyptian wheat for feed-stuff for live stock. It is one of the newer crops, and it is said that it will stand more dry weather than any other forage, but with rainfall, the wheat reaches its greatest perfection. When grown under irrigation it has been known to yield 220 bushels per acre, and when conditions are favorable, three crops have been harvested in one year. This wheat is adapted to the same soils and climate as Kafir corn and milo maize, and is especially good for fattening hogs. As a chicken feed the Egyptian wheat is an ideal crop, and many poultry farmers are using it altogether.

SAN ANGELO WANTS ROAD.

Citizens Are Ready With Money To Help Build Projected Line.

(Caller-Herald Special.)

RAN ANGELO, Texas, Jan. 11—Howard Smith of San Angelo, who is here on a visit, says that the citizens of San Angelo are ready to help finance the proposed San Antonio, Rockport & Mexican railroad. He said that despite the fact that the people of San Angelo have spent money freely in bringing the Orient railway through the city they are anxious to get the road now proposed by the San Antonio, Rockport & Mexican railway company.

There's ready money in San Angelo, he said, and the people are not afraid to put it up on a proposition as that now pending.

It has also been stated that a large coast city of Texas has offered to guarantee the railroad $500,000 provided it serves that city and cuts San Antonio out. As a result of this statement it is believed that the people of San Antonio will lose no time towards raising the $200,000 required by the railroad company as San Antonio's share for the building of the road.

For Conservation of Gas.

(Caller-Herald Special.)

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 11—William B. Phillips, director of the Bureau of Economic Geology and Technology of the State University, has been taking a great deal of interest in the development of the Texas gas fields.

Professor Phillips believes in the scientific and economical handling of the state's natural resources and in a recent interview said:

"I hope the Crockett field will be handled in a business-like manner. I am much afraid that some of the natural gas people in Texas are offering gas at too low a rate. This will mean a heavy use of it and a sooner exhaustion of the fields.

There are not a few towns in Ohio which could give evidence on this point, to say nothing of Kansas and Oklahoma. A price below which the business can be secured is suicidal."

She plays the piano constantly, but only just those pieces which she learned as a girl, and though a good performer she can not be persuaded to look at a new composition. She plays cards in the evenings with one of her three ladies in waiting, but always in silence, and it is an unwritten law that she must be allowed to win the game. She seldom speaks, and always impersonally, never using even the royal "we."

From time to time some of the leading medical men make an examination of her health. Not long ago she completely surprised one of them by speaking to him. She called him to the window and said: "Do you see a serpent coiled around those trees?" The doctor, thinking to humor her, said he did.

"And," she went on, "do you see
